700 000 € lost in the blind spot of a collaboration

THE HERO

An accountant confronting an unexplained anomaly in a marketplace's data.

THE CHALLENGE

700 000 €

in real sales never collected. Over 6 months.
Without anyone noticing.

THE LESSON

The blind spot between teams costs more than any fraud.

THE CONTEXT

In my previous role, as e-commerce and marketplace accountant at a fashion company, we were integrating a new online sales platform. On the sales side: total enthusiasm. New channel, new sales, new revenue. On the finance side: the figures seemed to confirm the success. Sales were being recorded correctly.

THE DISCOVERY

But during my monthly reconciliations, something was off. The revenue was there on paper — the cash, however, never reached the bank. I dug deeper. Cross-checked the accounting data against the marketplace reports. Isolated the anomalies. And the verdict landed: 700 000 € of real sales had never been collected. Over 6 months.

THE BLIND SPOT

The cause? Not fraud. Not an error. Just a blind spot in the collaboration between teams. Sales drove the deals. IT handled the technical integration. Finance reconciled the entries. But no one held the end-to-end view of the flow — from the sale through to the actual cash landing in the bank. For that specific marketplace, payments were not automatic. They required a manual validation that no one had taken ownership of. In the excitement of the launch, this critical step had fallen through the cracks between teams.

In any company — large or small — actual cash is often the great forgotten metric of the dashboards. We steer revenue, we watch margins, we track costs. But the real cash lives in the blind spot between departments, between tools, between responsibilities.

For an SME, this blind spot can be fatal. Without a dedicated management controller, without a cross-functional view, the warning signals pile up in silence — until the day it is too late to act.

It is precisely to close this blind spot that GPS Fin Consulting was created.

No one held the end-to-end view of the flow — from the sale through to the actual cash in the bank.

11,063 bankruptcies in Belgium in 2023. Behind every file: annual accounts filed with the NBB. Figures you already knew. The accountant receives the accounts. Files them. Submits the VAT return. But between the filing and the bankruptcy, how many warning signals passed without a structured diagnosis? It is not a lack of information. It is a lack of a structured diagnosis at the right moment.

THE GENESIS

Why GPS Fin Consulting exists — and why you need it

In 2023, 11,063 Belgian companies went bankrupt. Behind each one: an accounting firm that had the accounts, bookkeeping in order, and no structured warning signal. GPS Fin Consulting was born from this observation: NBB data contains everything needed to diagnose a company in difficulty. It is available. It is structured. It was waiting for an analytical engine. That engine now exists. And it works for you.

THE DATA EXISTS

Every Belgian SME files its accounts with the NBB. This data is usable on receipt — with no manual entry.

THE ANALYSIS WAS MISSING

Standard ratios and the accounting balance sheet do not capture real cash-flow dynamics nor the early warning signs of a crisis.
